IDEAS FOR HOME BUILDERS

BY WM. A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 125 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

The most economical house to build and to occupy afterward is nearly square, of medium size, full two stories in height, with a good, deep cellar and an attic big enough to act as a buffer against heat in summer and cold in winter. Such houses give more room according to the size of the foundation and roof than any other design.

The house here illustrated is typical of this style. It is 31 feet wide by 33 feet from front to rear—proportions that work to good advantage. There are certain geometrical combinations that work to a disadvantage in a square house, but are easily overcome when you add a few feet to the length.

One of the difficulties is the stairway, which interferes with the proper laying-out of the rooms in every short house. Stairways in dwelling houses have caused more early graves, and sent more architects to early graves, than any other feature in house building. There was a time when a rough ladder fashioned with an ax answered the purpose. It was made with the rungs of two trees for sides, and sections of smaller trees for rungs. There was a hole through the upper floor and usually an effort was made to place the opening where the roof was high enough so you could miss hitting the knots on the rungs with your head. From that time to this stairways have grown in complexity until we think we have them about perfect.

Makers of hot water heating plants and hot air furnaces are in very close competition. Improvements are being added every year, until both systems seem to be about as near perfect as human ingenuity can make them. A hot air furnace big enough to heat this house comfortably in zero weather can be installed for about $125. A hot water heating system will cost more, the difference depending largely on the kind of radiators and the extra attachments; probably $250 would be the minimum, and $500 would be rather extravagant. The hot water plant will use a little less coal, because hot water is a better medium through which to convey heat. While no accurate estimate can be given without figuring the actual amount of heating surface and cubic air space, on general principles it may be said that, taking five years together, the cost of one system is about the same as the other.

landings. The projection also offers an excuse to work in four windows for light and for general effect. The lighting of a modern stairway is another recent improvement on anything that former generations were familiar with.

This arrangement is a combination affair going up from the kitchen and from the front hall, and down from the kitchen to the cellar. On the second floor the going up to the attic and down stairs is equally good. The stairway looks well, and it is very convenient and satisfactory.

A house built in this manner has another advantage, and that is in heating. It is so compact that from one to five tons of coal per year may be saved, as compared with the amount required in some old-fashioned, loose jointed houses that are no more roomy and offer no more accommodation. Under this house is a splendid cellar that is as light as some of the best rooms in houses built a dozen years ago, when small, narrow windows were in fashion. In a basement like this you can place a modern heating apparatus that will take care of the temperature in the coldest weather; and the attention required will not worry a person more than a few minutes twice a day.

PREPARATION OF A SEED BED

Illustration Shows Implement for Mellowing Surface and Also for Smoothing Roads.

An implement which may be used to mellow the surface is made by taking four pieces of seasoned hard wood, each six by six inches, and eight feet long; bolt together so that the corners, or edges, will rest on the ground, with three eye-bolts of three-quarter-inch round iron, about 22 inches long, one through the middle of the drag, the others each six inches from either end of the timbers. Use angle washers with holes for opening of hooks, clip out half-inch edge of the tow inside pieces back of end bolt, for chain hook in transportation from place to place, as shown in Fig. 1.

For use as road smoother, drop back right-hand end of drag with about 2 1/2 feet of wagon stay-chain, as in Fig. 2.

After plowing in the earlier portion of the day, transfer the teams to the combination drag-harrow, guiding the six abreast with ordinary checks as shown in Fig. 3.

Caution on Pasturing Alfalfa.

Alfalfa should be pastured with very great caution. In fact, the farmer who holds this matchless crop in proper regard will pasture something else and just use the alfalfa for hay. But if the alfalfa is to be pastured about half enough stock should be kept on it to keep the growth down. By this method two or three cuttings of hay will be obtained in addition to the pasturage. Another caution to throw out is that it should be allowed to make a good start in the spring before the stock are turned on, and should be allowed to go in the winter with a good cover. Under no conditions should it be pastured in cold weather.

Buying Supplementary Feeds.

The farmer who has an abundance of corn and no other grain will find it greatly to his profit if he will get a part of his corn and buy other feeds to furnish a variety of rations for the animals, as their systems thus would be supplied with all the essentials necessary to proper growth and development, and yet not require so much food.

Good Roads & Farm Notes

A liberal use of paint means a great deal to the farmer.

Sharpen and repair the garden tools or next season's use.

The successful garden is started in the fall, although not a seed may be planted.

Keep all the tools that are used around the barn in convenient and safe places.

A little paint goes a long way toward making a home out of a group of buildings.

How much does it cost to have that machinery standing out in the weather? Sheddling is cheap!

While planting your garden give five attention to the color of the flowers so that they may harmonize.

Many a new and valuable implement is left out all winter more through carelessness than anything else.

Tobacco dust worked into the surface of the soil just before setting the ettings will help to keep the aphids away.

These days can be put to good use in getting the gardenstone into service and sharpening up things generally.

Ashes are best applied in the spring, separately or in connection with phosphate fertilizers as a top dressing.

Cabbage is one of the easiest vegetables to start from seed and to transplant, and to be made to grow in the garden or field.

Be Happy!

Happy the girl, or woman, who has never suffered from any of the diseases of womanhood! Or, if she has been a sufferer, happy is she if she has learned of the wonderful benefits of Cardui, the woman's tonic!

Cardui is a gentle, tonic remedy, for women's ailments. It is a natural medicine—safe, harmless, purely vegetable. It has been in successful use for more than 50 years. It has cured thousands. It should do the same for you.

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Mary Neely, of Denver, Tenn., says, "I think there is no tonic on earth, as good as Cardui. I used it with the very best results. I had backache and nearly everything a woman could suffer with, until I took Cardui. Now, I feel better than I have for two years. I shall always recommend Cardui to other suffering women. I can't praise it too highly. As a medicine for weak, tired, worn-out women, Cardui is safe and reliable. Try it, today."

ACCORDING to a recent publication of the Bureau of Education, the best paid head of any state aided institution of higher education in the United States is the President of the University of California, who receives $12,000 a year and a house. The presidents of Illinois and Cornell universities each receives $10,000 a year and a house, while the president of the University of Minnesota gets $10,000 without a house. The lowest salary paid the head of one of these institutions is $2,400. The salaries of faculty members range from $50 a year for the least paid tutor to $6,000 a year for the best-paid full professor.

RECENTLY George W. Beatty made two circuits of the Nassau Boulevard, Long Island, aerodrome in his Frontier-engine Wright bi plane carrying five passengers. The total live load lift amounted to 845 pounds. One man sat in the passenger's seat and held another in his lap, while the three others lay prone across the lower plane. Beatty got off the ground in a couple of hundred feet and rose to a height of 150 feet during one round of the course. The above is the greatest dead weight carried by an aeroplane in the United States, besides being a record.

Old Vets and Friends Have Good Time.
Co. H, of the 11th. Ky. Vol. Inf. held its semi annual reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Smith, near Paradise, last Saturday. This company has heretofore met at the home of one of its members, and its reunions were attended by many of the old veterans who are members of other companies, Federal and confederate. At their last reunion they were the guests of a member of Co. G, 11th. Ky. Inf. The meeting was a grand success in every respect. Besides fourteen old Federal soldiers and one Confederate veteran there were present about eighty other guests, including the Rockport cornet band. An elaborate dinner and supper were served to the crowd. Speeches were delivered by L. Reid, H. C. McCracken, Otto A. Rothert and L. D. Griggs.

All the old Federal soldiers present had served under Gen. Don Carlos Buell during the beginning of the war, and those who were able to do so walked over Airdie Hill, v.v.v.d the ruins of the Buell Lodge and also visited the ruins of the Airdie furnace. Every old veteran present declared this was the most interesting reunion ever held in the county.

The four members of Co. H. present were: H. C. McCracken, John Coombs, J. N. Durall and W. M. Lewis. The other old Federal soldiers were: G. W. Allen, Sam Robertson, D. E. Grant, R. W. Casebier, R. J. Dobbs and Wm. H. Smith, of the 11th. Ky. Inf., E. C. Shull, 26th. Ky. Inf.; M. Mason, 35th. Ky. Inf.; John L. G. Thompson, 2nd. Ill. Cav.; L. D. Griggs, 25th. Ind. Inf. The Confederate veteran present was L. Reid, who was a member of Co. C, 9th. Ky. Inf.

The next reunion will take place the first Saturday in October at the home of one of the members of Co. H. as heretofore, all old soldiers will be welcome.

A GUEST

Mr. John A. Williams is here from Lexington, and will spend some time with relatives and friends.

A picnic promoter and out-door amusement organizer was last week bemoaning the fact that Kentucky had held its Republican convention for Presidential convention delegates. He said that with this event still on the boards he would have been able to clean up thousands of dollars, as he would have arranged a number of events in the county, and had as principal attractions the two active Republican candidates for President as speakers, drawing thousands of people from this and adjoining counties. This has been his usual fate, he declares, as many times in life he has been right in line to make a fortune, but something has appeared at the last moment to wreck his plans.

School boys who have done a good year's work in their books are now looking out for suitable summer employment.

The contractors have been doing considerable work on the roads, and travel is again becoming possible.

Curtis Petty is now with the J. L. Roark Estate force.

Farmers hereabouts have much cause for regret over the weather conditions, but they are so much better off than many thousands who have lost all on account of the high waters that they should not complain.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, Jephtha C. Jonson, senior member of the Muhlenberg county bar, died upon April 10, 1912: Now as a memorial of his worth as a man, his long and honorable career as a lawyer, it is resolved by the bar of Muhlenberg county:

1. In his private life he exemplified the highest type of man.
2. As a lawyer, he was able, conscientious, industrious and zealous in behalf of his clients. In his long and honorable career at the bar, he upheld the highest traditions of his profession and was an example worthy of emulation by members of his profession.
3. In his death this community loses one of its most useful citizens and the bar of Kentucky one of its most honorable members.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be entered upon the order book of the Muhlenberg Circuit Court and the records of the Muhlenberg Court Bar Association, one forwarded to the State Bar Association, and one given to the members of his family.

Mr. Samuel M. Mercer, aged 58 years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jos. A. Williams, at 11 o'clock Tuesday, after a long illness of three weeks. Funeral services were held at Jernigans Chapel, at 1 o'clock Tuesday, conducted by Rev. G. B. McDonald, and interment was in the graveyard at the church. Deceased was well known here, and several members of the Brotherhood of Carpenters, of which he was a member, attended the services, and the pallbearers were selected from that order.

Miners Vote to Return to Work.

Reports from the vote taken by the miners Tuesday indicate about two to one in favor of accepting the proposed contract, and returning to work. Everyone is pleased with the result, and it is thought by Monday everything will be in full swing. Work will doubtless be extremely light for some months, as demand for coal will be light, owing to many concerns storing coal in anticipation of a strike.

Printer Found Dead in Car at Central City.

The body of Walter Swain was found in a box car at Central City last Wednesday night. The car had been picked up here by a through freight, and is supposed that Swain was in it though no one saw him at this place. Identification was established by letters and cards found in the pockets, and communication was had with relatives in Nashville, where the body was shipped Thursday for burial. Swain was shot in the head, and his face was badly beaten. Officers are making an investigation, but have as yet found no clue as to who committed the murder. Swain was a union printer but was unknown here, this evidently being his first trip through this section.

Why Not Give Your Business to a Concern That Handles the Groceries?

Do you know the reason why most Grocers do not handle fresh Vegetables, Fruits, Strawberries, etc?

There is very little profit in these goods. For the same reason they do not handle Swan's Down flour, Chase & Sanborn coffee, Swift's Premium ham and bacon.

We are having a fine business by handling high grade goods at a small margin of profit.

Insist on your Grocer giving you these goods. Don't let him convince you he has "something just as good."

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh. It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Do not forget the dates of the big membership campaign May 23, 24, 25.

Below are given some of the Y. M. C. A. privileges of which every man and boy should avail himself: There are departments to develop the four fold nature of man—mental, physical, social and spiritual. On the reading table is to be found all the leading weekly and monthly magazines, county papers and a Louisville daily, and there is an excellent library which is growing. In the gymnasium is to be found all the most modern equipment for the physical development under proper instruction, and in the basement the lavatory and shower baths. These baths are conceded to be the best kind of baths, far superior to a tub bath, and are being installed almost exclusively. In the game or social room there are several good games, and there are to be additions as soon as the growth in membership permits. In the religious department the work for the last year will show its part in the work. Men's gospel meetings attendance 435; men's and boys' bible classes attendance 689, week of prayer attendance 99, seven meetings held in the jail attendance 298, making a total attendance at all religious meetings 1521, besides the Christian influence in and around the building day by day.

All these privileges cost but very little compared with the amount you receive, and every citizen should consider it a privilege to help in the work of this institution.

Visit Sam Ree's barber shop, near Max Weir old stand, for a smooth shave and artistic hair cut. Alfred Collins is with me again.

Notice to Clean Up.

Owners and tenants of property are notified to clean up around the premises, removing all dirt cans, refuse, etc., and placing everything in strict sanitary condition. The state board of health is making every effort to protect the health of the people who live in our commonwealth, and hope to have the hearty co-operation of county and local authorities, in the enforcement of all sanitary measures. It is hoped the people will respond universally to this notice, thus not only improving the appearance of the city, but at the same time insuring a minimum of sickness, suffering, expense, and the saving of many lives.

TIRE RUN-DOWN PEOPLE

A North Carolina Man Suggests a Remedy

Greensboro, N. C.—"For a long time I was so run down and debilitated that I could hardly drag around. My appetite was poor and I could not sleep nights. I had tried different so-called tonics without benefit. I was advised to try your cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol, and I am so glad I did, for it gave me a hearty appetite, I soon commenced to sleep soundly, and I feel strong, well and more active than I have for years. Every run-down or debilitated person should just give Vinol a trial." K. Allsbrook.

What Vinol did for Mr. Allsbrook: It will do for every weak, run-down or debilitated person in this vicinity. To show our faith we will furnish the medicine free if it does not do as we claim. Come in and get a bottle on these terms.

Court Review.

Judge Sandidge closed his spring term of court last week near the closing out of the month of April, having consumed nearly the entire month in disposing of a large docket. While sitting in the court room taking in the proceedings of the court our thoughts were carried back along the channel of circuit courts of the county, going back to the commencement of litigation in the first years of the nineteenth century. We summoned up eighteen appointed and elected circuit judges who have held courts in the county. The first to be appointed were associated judges for the county. They were, William Bell and William Worthington. In 1804 Muhlenberg became part of a judicial district, joined with Henderson county. At that time Muhlenberg county comprehended part of McLean county, and Henderson that of Hopkins and Union. Judge Henry P. Broadenax was appointed circuit judge of the district, which office he held until 1819 when Benjamin Shackleford succeeded him. Judge Broadenax was a man of distinction in his day, considered an able jurist, as was also Judge Shackleford. Judge Shackleford was succeeded by Alney McLean, a citizen of Greenville. The courts held by Broadenax, Shackleford and part of McLean's term were held in a log court house, consisting of three rooms, one in the lower story and two above, chinked and daubed with mud and lime, ceiled with split boards put on with pegs. This court house stood until about 1834, when a brick house was built and condemned and another brick house was built in 1835 which was received, in which Judge McLean finished his term as circuit judge, running from 1822 until his death, which occurred in the latter part of 1841. His successor was John Calhoun who continued until 1850, when Jessie W. Kincheloe was elected, being the first elected judge for the Muhlenberg judicial district. Kincheloe was succeeded by George B. Cook; he was elected in 1856 and died in less than a year afterwards. We think he held but one court in Muhlenberg. Thomas C. Dabney became Cook's successor and filled out his term. Dabney's time expired during the commencement of the civil war. He was succeeded by R. T. Petree of Hopkinsville. Petree was elected August, 1862, and became the war judge. We knew Cook and Dabney but were not so familiar with their courts as that of Petree. Petree was an able lawyer, and a nice, even tempered man and gave good satisfaction in his courts. He had the perils of war to contend with. We heard Petree relate an occurrence that took place at Princeton; at that time Muhlenberg and Caldwell counties were in the same judicial district. On one occasion while Petree was holding court at Princeton a company of Federal soldiers were stationed there, and one day while his court was in full progress, a few days before adjournment, a lawyer was up making a rattling speech before a jury, a company of southern soldiers dashed into Princeton and a general engagement commenced near and about the court house. Petree said, all of a sudden they heard a great noise and bang, bang! and the rapid fire of guns, the rattling of balls against and in the court house. An abrupt and unceremonious adjournment took place at once. The jury, lawyers and witnesses scattered, ran and hid; the clerk and himself dashed into a little back room for shelter where he got up on a chair to look out a transom to see what was going on outside, and a moment after he got down a ball pierced through the transom at the very spot he was looking out and struck the opposite wall and soldiers commenced dashing in the court house, when he dashed out the back way and as soon as he could left for Hopkinsville and did not stop until he reached that place. In the skirmish there were several killed and wounded. Courts and court houses did not fare so well during the civil war. Petree was succeeded by George C. Rogers of Bowling Green, the judicial district having been changed. Rogers died after the lapse of about two years of his term. His term was filled out by R. C. Bowling of Russellville, after which John E. Halsel was elected and soon afterwards resigned. R. C. Bowling filled out his term. Judge John R. Grace became his successor serving twelve years. He was succeeded by W. L. Reeves, Reeves was succeeded by Judge I. H. Goodnight, who died during his term of office which was filled out by S. R. Crewson. He was succeeded by W. P. Sandidge, who is now serving his second term. Of all this list of Judges only two are living, the last two mentioned. After reviewing the roll of judges that have acted in the county, I thought of the various lawyers, juries, litigants and witnesses who had acted in many of the courts and are now missing, their work, acts and deeds going to make up the archives of the county. A new generation appeared before me of young lawyers and juries and a different crowd from that which was seen in other days. I saw one attorney within the judicial bar now living in another county appearing as a lone star of a constellation of legal lights once visible at the Greenville bar of justice, but one by one have faded and gone, and he now remains the only representative of a legal fraternity of fifteen lawyers who once lived in Greenville and were gathered with him in the courts of other judges during the 1870's. He stands the only living monument of that once active membership of the Greenville bar. His early legal comrades of years gone by appear no more in courts. Altho' seemingly alone and forsaken by former associates in law he still appears vigorous and active in the judicial proceedings of the present generation, mixing and mingling with those that shall survive him. Generations come and go, men die and flowers fade and the world continues to revolve.

The Red Marshes

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press)

Beyond the red marshes lay the sea. In the gray November days it was a tumbling sea, with the waves topped with white foam, and coming in heavily through the rustling marsh grass.

But it was at low tide that Marta's little dory slipped down the silver pathway of the streams that cut their way through the marshes.

Sometimes she met Sim Gregory coming back with lobsters from the early morning catch, and Sim would shake back his black lock, and would ask in his surly way, "What good things are you taking to your dad this morning, Marta?" and Marta would pipe up with her clear note, "It's fried clams."

For Marta's father worked on the new causeway, helping with his labor to make a permanent way to the rocky promontory which was cut off from the mainland at high tide.

Sim Gregory, or, as the people of the town called him, "Black Gregory," did not work on the causeway. He preferred the free method of earning his living in the sea. He sold his lobsters to the summer hotels, and in winter sent them to the city. Sim earned little for money. Perhaps that was the reason he had the name of being peculiar.

It was because Marta carried her father's dinner down the silver highways that Sim Gregory came through the marshes with his morning's catch rather than land at the docks in deeper water.

Sim loved Marta. Every day he brought her some offering from the sea. Sometimes Marta refused the gifts. "I can't take them," she said to Sim, one morning, as he held out to her a pair of shining mackerel.

"Why not?"

Marta looked away from him as she answered. "Mother says it isn't right. She wants—she wants me to marry Edward Pond, Sim."

Sim leaned forward and drew her dory close to his own with a strong hand.

"Marta," he said, with a sharp intake of his breath, "Marta, are you going to marry Ed?"

She shook her head. "No, no, I don't love him, but mother has set her heart on it."

"Why does she want to—sell—you?"

Marta raised her head quickly. "Don't you speak of that way. Mother doesn't realize—she only thinks that Edward is prosperous."

That night the wind blew away the fog, but it also blew itself into a strong gale, which increased as the day advanced, until, at sunset, sky and water showed the blackness of a storm.

It was not until midnight, however, that the people of the town began to be afraid. Then it was learned that a half-dozen of the boats that had gone out early in the morning had not come back. The men from the life-saving station were on the watch, and fires were lighted and bells were rung.

Up and down the beach went the people whose sons and husbands and fathers were at sea. Mothers went for their boys, children for their parents.

But nobody wept for Sim. Only Marta, straining her eyes through the blackness, prayed that he might be safe—that he might come back to her.

A shout went up, as somewhere, out in the leaping blackness, there shone a light like a star. The lifeboat, working its way against wind and wave brought back five men.

"Everybody is safe," said some one near Marta.

Marta, searching the bronzed faces, asked, "Did you—did you find Sim Gregory?"

"We saw him just as the storm broke," said one of the men. "We shouted, but he was too far away to hear us—we haven't seen him since."

All night long the life guards patrolled the beach. All night long Marta strained her eyes out to sea. When dawn came the wind died, and the sun came up, rosy red above the horizon. And as it rose it showed far out on the tossing waters a black speck.

"It's a boat!"

"And there's a man in it, miss," said one of the guards.

Then Marta fled homeward to hear the reproaches of her mother.

It was nearly noon when Marta went across the red marshes with her father's lunch.

When she met Sim Gregory she stared not look up.

"Marta," he called, and brought his boat close to hers, and his voice was eager as he spoke, "they told me, on the beach, that you waited all night for news of me."

She answered him as she had answered her mother, "Surely a man has right to have one heart cry out for him when he's at the mercy of the wind and waves."

"Did your heart cry, Marta?"

In spite of her self-consciousness, she told him the truth. "If you had died my heart would have died with you, Sim."

No one could have called him "Black Gregory" if they could have seen him at that moment. His face was melted into tenderness.

"I think I came back because you called me, Marta," he said. "There was one moment when in the blackness I lost hope, but something seemed to urge 'Marta's waiting,' and so I came."

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was the fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the creation of that now very popular stomach remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerve, it also found that nerve and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. With out that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishment would ever be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and yellow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative Tablets or Liquid—and see for your self what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.
